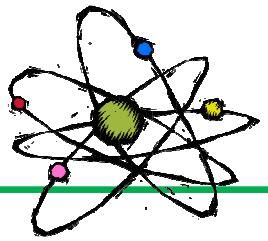
Millcreek Elementary



Jana Kirchner, Ph.D., is the Instructional Supervisor for Simpson County Schools in Franklin, KY. In addition to being the parent of two gifted children, Jana has 27 years of experience in education that includes teaching high school Advance Placement courses, providing professional development for teachers, presenting at state and national conferences, coauthoring Parenting Gifted Children 101 and Decoding the Past: Inquiry-Based Lessons in U.S. History, and publishing articles and book chapters on social studies, differentiation, content literacy, and teaching strategies.

Morning Session

Session 1: 10:00 AM– 12:00 PM

Join us for an introductory mini-course for parents and families who want to understand and help their gifted child. The morning session will focus on cognitive, social, and emotional characteristics of gifted children and research-based strategies for encouraging and supporting gifted children both at home and at school. The session also will highlight insights from parents and educators of gifted children.

Afternoon Session

Session 2: 1:00 PM– 3:00 PM

Expanding on the morning session, the afternoon will focus on myths about gifted children, an overview of gifted regulations and services in Kentucky, and practical strategies for partnering with your child's school to maximize educational experiences. The session will also highlight insights from parents and educators of gifted children.
